PlaySteel MAX & FIT Components

Challenging and Fun

Children learn to challenge not only their bodies but their minds as well. Traverse amazing climbers, cross difficult overheads, challenge friends on maze wheels or the boogie board. So many events and fun things to do, children will never realize they are expanding their minds and exercising their bodies.

Where Friends & Family Come Together

Playgrounds are where communities connect. It's the place to bring your friends or meet new ones. Lasting friendships are often built here. Who remembers those wonderful games of tag as a kid?

Social and Quiet Spaces

Lots of components provide quiet places to escape the hustle and bustle of the main playground. Other components are magnets for kids to gather like the playcounter shown here. Take a look at our component sections to see the play events you're interested in for your playground.

Orbital Fun for Kids

Striking and modern in design, kids and grown-ups can't resist the Orbis—the play system that puts the focus on physical activity. Free from entrances and exits, Orbis lets children interact without boundaries with the play events around them.

Ultimate Play Time

The orbital ring is the key to the Orbis. All the climbers and arches and overhead play elements extend out from the spherical ring. Kids love the innovative design of Orbis often choosing it over traditional playgrounds to play on. You can't go wrong—each one is a proven winner with children.

Space Built Quality

Through the power of the Antigravity Clamp, play components in Orbis's orbit are frozen in space, defying Newton's law of gravity. Cast from aluminum, the Antigravity Clamp is engineered and tested to endure all that the universe offers. All of the Orbis clamps are oversized for added strength and durability.

Orbital Adventures

Kids access the heights of Orbis to explore the whole play area and beyond. Challenges kids need for their minds and bodies and so fun they won't realize they are doing something very healthy for them, unlike trying to get them to eat their veggies.

ge·odes

ge·ode — A hollow, usually spheroidal rock with crystals lining the inside wall.

With a combination of rounded and linear structural beams and a complex inner structure of play ropes, a Geode takes children far from their everyday play experience, stretching and learning as they go.

- Available in Mini and Mega sizes, Geodes fit park, school or childcare settings.
- Geodes can be attached to PlaySteel and Orbis play structures.
- High-strength, steel-reinforced Geode play ropes are German-engineered for maximum strength and an optimal grip.
- Play on Geodes is responsive and ever-changing. The movement and reactivity of rope play provides children with a play experience unlike any other.
- Geodes develop core strength and balance while improving climbing skills and co-ordination.
- Geodes are not just climbers. Children use play ropes in more ways than you can imagine—climbing is just the beginning.
